

Our Life Warriors

Warriors

To be a member of the Life Warriors and all the teams that derive from the program, one must Respect self, Respect others, and Respect the process.

If they have these three characteristics exuding from their pores, then they can represent the program on and off the fields of play.

The Life warriors' mission also is very simple: "AIO and Share Unique Joy." Adapt, Improve, Overcome and enjoy the day in your own special way.

The communicative skills our Life Warriors develop via sport, travel, and international engagement provides them with the foundations of positive responsible leadership. Our warriors learn how to work as a team, work as an individual, take responsibility for action, accept improvements, study failures, make decisions, take risks, enjoy victories, bear/endure defeats, bounce back and return to battle, appreciate the efforts of others, laugh, smile, embrace, and reach for the unobtainable.

The Life Warriors also know how to think outside of the box, work with the rules that are within the box, appreciate the cultures of others, share the good news and accolades of the day, explore, empower, and rest!

These skill sets uplift and maintain the character of our life warriors as they improve a community within the educational, athletic, social, political, economic, and religious setting of their journey.

We are honored to be with them as they shape their minds into a focused positive world view.
