

Political Awareness is Looking in the Wrong Direction

Political Awareness is looking in the wrong direction When one candidate dresses to gain favor and another, dresses to fit in, the true leaders of the people play a simple game of baseball.

Yes, one team wins with talent and money and all the resources of ability while another team wins on heart, grit, teamwork, and love.

Love? A funny thing; this word Love. However, it cannot be defined, controlled, manipulated, bought, or sold. It can only be enjoyed, shared, cherished, fought for, died for, and remembered.

During the 2024 USA presidential elections, the only thing I will remember is the love a group of men had for one another as they came from behind to win a frivolous game of play!

The Brooklyn Dodgers, oops... LA Dodgers, repeated a social phenomenon that happens every year. Like a yearly holiday of Joy, groups of men play others in a game of life that, more times than not, ends up recording victory to the team that played with love and respect and hunger.

Hunger to seize the moment, to bring respect to one another, to represent, to get the job done. Not to gain a contract extension, more money, a trip to "lala" land, but to just bring glory to brothers and sisters who would also do the same thing for others!

Over my little 60 plus years on the planet, I have seen it happen for decades. I cannot tell you all the names of all the faces, but I can recognize their smiles in an instant. Their smiles of love, respect, and getting the job done!

What a campaign slogan to hang on to!

"Bring Da Joy and Never Quit!"
